

ISO 9001 - ISO 14001 - ISO 45001

Have your QSE management system certified

QSE (Quality Safety Environment) certification makes it possible to provide proof of the performance of your organisation in terms of quality, health and safety at work and in the environment, by meeting international standards, and to continuously improve the effectiveness of your structure by preventing malfunctions in particular.

This certification is a voluntary approach based on standards:

- ISO 9001, management of quality
- ISO 14001, management of the environment
- ISO 45001, management of occupational health and safety

It is intended for bodies of all types and sizes, regardless of their organisational, sector, geographical, cultural and social characteristics.

The benefits

- Demonstration of the management's commitment to improve quality, protect the environment and improve the health and safety of employees.
- Global approach of the management systems, which makes it possible to simplify the setting up of procedures and to increase coherency and effectiveness.
- Participation at one time of all of the stakeholders for the audit and involvement of the employees.
- Reduction in the cost of certification (optimised audits and preparation time): combined audit (ISO 9001, ISO 14001, ISO 45001), through the application of an integrated system, allows for significant direct and indirect gains.
- Cross-disciplinary steering, pooling of good practices.
- Enhancing your image with customers, principals and partners.

The procedures

QSE certification is a voluntary approach.

To apply for certification in the best conditions, it is desirable:

- that your management system has been operational for 6 months,
- has undergone an internal audit at least once,
- and a management review has been conducted.

The certification process

1	Certification Request
2	Scheduling
3	Initial audit
4	Certification decision
5	Issuing of the Certificate
6	Annual follow-up audit
